Information for the Host

Catholic Charities USA has developed the Catholic Disaster Preparedness Program (CDPP) training packages for use by local Catholic Charities agencies, parishes, and other organizations. The host organization provides the administrative support for the training and identifies the facilitator who will assist participants to get the most out of their training. A representative of the host organization should attend the training and be available to explain such things as restroom and fire exit locations. CDPP Sharing Our Gifts is intended to be conducted in one session of about 90 minutes. Time may vary depending on the number of participants.

	Requirement Checklist
Administrative Requirements
	Select dates, market the training, and enroll participants.
	Identify the training room, making accommodations for special needs.
	Print training materials. (See Training Materials below)
	Print adequate copies of the post-training evaluation form at the end of this Facilitator Guide. The evaluation data is intended for use by the host organization in improving training delivery and enhancing disaster preparedness programs and disaster operations capabilities.
	Download videos to the laptop computer that will be attached to the projector. (See Training Materials below)
	Provide attendance sign-up sheets, recommended if the host organization hopes to engage with the participants after the training. These are provided by host and usually require a volunteer or staff member to oversee sign-in.
	Provide name tags or table name tents if participants do not know one another.
Training Room Requirements
	Facilitator table to hold laptop computer, projector, speakers, Facilitator and Participant Guides, and any handouts.
	Tables and chairs arranged to enable all participants to see the video, and large enough for open participant guides or laptop computers.
	Screen or wall space to project the video. If the room is large, a microphone for the facilitator

Equipment Requirements
	Laptop computer for playing the videos, connected to projector and sound system
	A wireless “Air Mouse” for starting, pausing and resuming the video
	Screen or wall space to project the video
Training Materials (Obtain from CCUSA Disaster Training Video Library - YouTube)
	CDPP Sharing Our Gifts Facilitator Guide, printed or electronic
	CDPP Sharing Our Gifts Participant Guide, one per participant and facilitator or downloaded onto participant laptops
	CDPP Sharing Our Gifts Video 1, downloaded to projection laptop
	Post-training Evaluation forms, one per participant, printed from Facilitator Guide

Information for the Facilitator

The training package for CDPP Part III, Sharing Our Gifts, consists of a video, a facilitator guide, and a participant guide. The facilitator is not expected to be an instructor, because the instruction is contained in the video and the participant guide. The role is literally facilitation – following the instructions in the video to pause and re-start, and if necessary, to assist individuals or groups to understand activity instructions or find resources.

Facilitator Tasks Prior to Training

- Coordinate with the host organization on the time and location of the training sessions.
- Obtain and familiarize yourself with the content of the video, this facilitator guide, and the participant guide. Pay particular attention to the instructions to pause and resume the video – we recommend that you mark the pages of the facilitator guide so you will know when a pause is coming up.
- Arrange to practice with the host’s laptop computer and projection equipment to ensure you can start and pause the video when indicated.
- Check the equipment and ensure that the video has been downloaded.
- If the host has printed the participant guides, ensure that they are distributed.

FACILITATOR TASKS
Facilitator Tasks at the Beginning of Training
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Assist arriving participants to find a seat if they are hesitant – try to ensure that there are 3 to 5 people at each table so that they are already grouped for discussions.

|--|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Introduce yourself and briefly welcome the participants on behalf of the host (unless the host provides the welcome.) The video explains the CDPP program, this training, and the materials. |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If not addressed by the host, announce the location of fire exits and rest rooms. |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Request that everyone silence cell phones. |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Facilitate participant introductions. Ask them to provide their name and a brief description of why they enrolled in the training. |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Discuss breaks. The video will have to be paused during breaks so there should be a consensus about whether a break is needed. |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Suggest that the participants briefly familiarize themselves with the Participant Guide by looking at the Table of Contents and the Resources Section. |

Facilitator Tasks During Training

|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Follow the video and the facilitator guide closely and be prepared to pause and resume the videos according to the instructions. |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When the video is paused, check to see that participants have found the activity in their guide. Assist anyone having difficulty and allow a little more time, if needed. |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • For pair or group activities, if the participants are hesitant to form groups, assist in the process by suggesting pairings and groupings. |

Introduction

Catholic Charities USA is the official domestic relief agency of the U.S. Catholic Church.

During disaster response and recovery, Catholic Charities USA supports the efforts of local Catholic Charities agencies in communities, to provide resources and services when there are not enough resources to recover. Through various training initiatives, Catholic Charities USA also supports the disaster preparedness efforts of individuals and families, Parishes and dioceses, and local Catholic Charities agencies. This program is called the Catholic Disaster Preparedness Program.

Sharing Our Gifts is Part III of the Catholic Disaster Preparedness Program video training series, which also includes:

- Part I, Preparing Individuals and Families
- Part II, Parish Disaster Planning

If you participated in Parish Disaster Planning, you know that it focuses on developing plans to protect and continue the essential functions of the Parish. Sharing Our Gifts builds upon those foundational Parish preparedness concepts.

This video covers six main topics:

- The Parish as a Visible Sign of God's Love and Compassion in the Community
- What to Expect After a Disaster Event
- Partners that Serve the Community During Response and Recovery
- Ways a Parish Might Serve After a Disaster
- Assessing What the Parish May Be Able to Offer in Terms of Time, Talent, and Resources
- Maintaining Readiness to Serve When Needed

This Participant Guide includes a summary of the video content, worksheets for in-class learning activities, references, and resources to use later when preparing for your Parish to share its gifts.

Opening Prayer: Live in My Life

Lord, I invite You to live in my life today. Here is my face – Smile through it. Here is my mouth – Speak to someone with it. Here are my ears – Listen to someone with them. Here is my heart – Love someone with it. Here are my hands – Touch someone with them. Here are my arms – Hug someone with them. Here are my feet – walk with them this day. (Diocese of Kansas City, Kansas)

The Parish as a Visible Sign of God’s Love and Compassion in the Community

“Parishes offer spiritual care, love, acceptance, fellowship, and assistance to members and non-members every day. During a disaster, community residents turn to the Parish with new needs. Parishes often work together with other local organizations to respond to those needs. The poor and the vulnerable often already know they can turn to the Parish for help; for others a disaster may be the first time they have to ask for assistance.” (Father Thomas F. Ryan)

What to Expect After a Disaster Event

Catholic Charities USA defines disasters as “occurrences or situations that cause human suffering or create human needs that survivors cannot alleviate without assistance.”

Human needs after a disaster are determined by the impacts of the event and the availability of resources to assist survivors in their recovery. Many people assume the government has the capability to protect the population and meet all needs after a disaster event. However, the Federal Emergency Management Agency, FEMA, reminds us that individuals and families need to expect to sustain themselves for a minimum of 72 hours.

Local Response

Local governments without enough resources to respond to large events may request help from neighboring communities. Local emergency management agencies can only request help from the State when local resources are inadequate

State Resources

The State may provide resources such as National Guard support. Governors can request additional support from FEMA when State resources are exhausted.

Federal Assistance

When Federal assistance is requested, assessments are conducted to determine disaster impact and community needs. If those assessments result in a recommendation by FEMA to offer Federal assistance, the President of the United States may approve a disaster declaration for specific jurisdictions in the affected State.

- Federal assistance includes reimbursement to States for emergency measures and for damage to public infrastructure through the FEMA Public Assistance Program
- When there are casualties and significant uninsured damages, the declaration may include assistance for individuals and families under the FEMA Individual Assistance Program
- Some communities within a declared State may not meet the threshold for Federal assistance and are not eligible to receive Federal resources
- When a State receives a disaster declaration, it will likely be weeks after the event before Federal resources are available to meet individual needs.
- When there is no Federal disaster declaration, a community must recover with its own resources.

More information on the disaster declaration process may be found in another CCUSA online training video, "Disaster Basics" found on CCUSA's Disaster Training Video Library on YouTube. Links to that video and FEMA disaster programs are below and in the Resources section of this guide.

Recovery Needs

The disaster recovery process begins once life safety is established; recovery needs change over time and depend on circumstances.

During prolonged events (e.g. wildfires or slow rising floods) and after events like tornadoes, earthquakes and hurricanes have ended, the community may experience immediate need to assist multiple individuals and families through “mass care.” Mass care assistance may require:

- Sheltering
- Feeding
- Bulk distribution of subsistence goods
- Reunification assistance
- Emergency financial assistance
- Debris removal
- Securing property
- Emotional and spiritual care
- Pet sheltering
- Insurance or legal assistance

Partners that Serve the Community During Response and Recovery

Response

Local

During the actual emergency response, local responders include:

- Official first responders and emergency management officials
- Departments of transportation and public works
- Emergency response volunteers trained as part of the local Community Emergency Response Team (CERT)

State and Federal

As mentioned, the Governor may send the National Guard to assist local communities to respond.

Infrequently, in catastrophic events when an emergency or major disaster is declared before or while the event occurs, Federal emergency responders from the military, FEMA, Health and Human Services, or other Federal agencies may be called upon to respond.

Short-Term Recovery

National Disaster Relief Agencies

After immediate life safety has been established, more partners are able to address human services needs. Some but not all of the well-known disaster relief agencies with national and local elements are:

- Catholic Charities
- Knights of Columbus
- St. Vincent De Paul
- Adventist Community Services
- American Red Cross
- Convoy of Hope
- Feed the Children
- The Humane Society
- Lutheran Disaster Response
- The Salvation Army
- Southern Baptist Convention

Local Human Services Organizations

Local human services organizations, for example, community action agencies, community mental health providers, and local and regional food banks, are also part of the emergency response and early recovery phase.

Intermediate and Long-Term Recovery

During intermediate and long-term recovery, many of the groups listed above continue to assist survivors in the community. Other agencies specialize in meeting recovery needs.

Federal Agencies

Federal agencies specializing in recovery include FEMA, the Small Business Administration, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and others, depending on the disaster circumstances. The National Flood Insurance Program and other disaster insurers process claims to further the recovery of policyholders.

Voluntary Agencies

During long-term recovery, relief organizations and partners like Parishes may continue to assist community members by securing financing and helping find resources through donations and volunteer work teams.

Some voluntary organizations that focus on intermediate and long-term recovery assistance include Mennonite Disaster Service, Habitat for Humanity, the Chamber of Commerce, United Way, Legal Aid, and the United Methodist Committee on Relief (UMCOR).

Many non-government agencies providing disaster relief services join Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters (VOADs) at the State, Territory, regional, and community level (COADs). VOADs and COADs work together to coordinate post-disaster efforts to maximize assistance. Catholic Charities USA is an active member agency of the national VOAD. Most Catholic Charities Agencies participate on the state and local level with many holding leadership positions.

Special Relationship with Catholic Charities

Catholic Parishes have a natural connection with Catholic Charities, whose Agencies respond early and assist throughout disaster recovery. Agencies can provide Parishes with a variety of resources, to include:

- Guidance and/or support
- Assessment job aids and tools
- Needed supplies such as food, water, hygiene kits, tarps, tools, and clean-up supplies
- Immediate basic services such as: crisis counseling, spiritual care, Information and referrals
- Disaster case work

Catholic Charities Agencies are involved in both short-term and long-term recovery activities.

Short term assistance may include clean up and cleaning kits, other resources that help families get back into homes, and continued assistance with immediate needs like food and shelter.

Long term, through disaster case management services, Catholic Charities Agencies help clients plan and pursue recovery. Agencies may also:

- Arrange for the Bishop to visit impacted areas to gain a better understanding of the extent of the damage and to serve as a visual reminder that the church is ever-present.
- Partner with the Diocese or a Parish to arrange for community Mass or a Prayer service for responders, survivors, and disaster casualties.

Coordinate with Catholic Charities and others in the community when planning the Parish's post-disaster role so resources are multiplied, not duplicated, leaving other survivors in need.

Activity: Identifying Local Partners in Disaster Response and Recovery

Refer to the worksheet that follows. Individually or with other participants, answer these questions for future reference.

Identifying Local Partners in Disaster Response and Recovery

What organizations do you expect to have a role in disaster response and recovery in your community?	Does your Parish have any kind of pre-disaster relationship with them? If yes, describe the relationship.

Ways a Parish Might Serve After a Disaster

In FEMA's Engaging Faith-based and Community Organizations, local emergency management agencies are reminded that faith-based and community sectors have a wide spectrum of resources that can help make communities more resilient. Catholic Parishes may support others in the Parish and the community by participating through Catholic Charities separately, or as part of a Whole Community effort through activities such as the following. Additional areas of support are included in the Organizational Assessment at the end of this Participant Guide.

- Conducting wellness check-ins with Parishioners and others
- Responding to requests for emotional and spiritual care
- Partnering to host a disaster shelter or a pet-friendly disaster shelter
- Training volunteers to support sheltering operations in the community
- Hosting a point of distribution, or “POD” on the church campus to distribute food and supplies, or supporting one elsewhere
- Supporting debris removal efforts by having a cadre of volunteers
- Storing disaster supplies for the community in unused Parish space
- Raising donations to send to the local Catholic Charities Agency
- Providing, through the Parish priest and Eucharistic Ministers, spiritual and emotional care to community members
- Planning and hosting a disaster appreciation event to support the hard work of disaster survivors and /or responders

Further into disaster recovery, a Parish may offer support for long-term community recovery. Catholic Charities, with their expertise in Disaster Case Management, is the best source of guidance on how to do this.

Facilitator Pause The Video After The Instructions For: “Suggesting Disaster Roles For Your Parish”

*Direct participants to the Suggesting Disaster Roles for Your Parish activity in the participant guide.
Review the instructions and answer any questions.*

Activity: Suggesting Disaster Roles for Your Parish

- Refer to the worksheet below and check off ideas that might be a good match with your Parish resources and capabilities.
- Then brainstorm and record any other ideas you may have about how the Parish might contribute to the community’s recovery.

Can we do this?	Disaster Roles
	Conduct wellness check-ins with Parishioners and others
	Respond to requests for emotional and spiritual care
	Partner to host a disaster shelter or a pet-friendly disaster shelter
	Train volunteers to support sheltering operations in the community
	Hosting a point of distribution, or “POD” on the church campus to distribute food and supplies
	Support a POD elsewhere, providing volunteers
	Support debris removal efforts by having a cadre of volunteers
	Store disaster supplies for the community in unused Parish space
	Raise donations to send to the local Catholic Charities Agency
	Provide, through the Parish priest and Eucharistic Ministers, spiritual and emotional care to community members
	Plan and host a disaster appreciation event to support the hard work of disaster survivors and /or responders
What Else Can We Do?

Facilitator Resume the Video After 15 Minutes

Assessing What the Parish May Be Able to Offer in Terms of Time, Talent, and Resources

Parishes can decide before a disaster occurs how best to contribute to community disaster relief; collaborating with Catholic Charities as you plan can help you develop a comprehensive disaster response.

Complete an assessment of Parish capabilities to perform disaster services before developing your plan. Identify services the Parish:

- Can perform right now
- Will be able to perform in the future
- Cannot perform

Assessment information can be shared with Catholic Charities, the local emergency management organization, and any voluntary organizations that may be Parish partners during disaster response and recovery.

Facilitator Pause The Video After Instructions for: “Activity: Assessing Parish Capabilities”

Refer participants to this activity in the Participant Guide and the Assessment form at the end of the document. If appropriate, facilitate participants to work together to become familiar with the form now recommend that they reconvene later if not completed.

Activity: Assessing Parish Capabilities

- Turn to the Organizational Capabilities Assessment Form at the end of this Participant Guide, which is excerpt from the FEMA guidance Engaging Faith-Based and Community Organizations.
- Work together to complete the assessment to the best of your ability or reconvene later to complete the assessment.
- It is an extensive assessment. You may wish to begin now to become more familiar with the document and then schedule a later time to get together and complete it when you have more information and time.

Facilitator Resume the Video After 15 Minutes

Maintaining Readiness to Serve

The Parish must be operational before it can help others. As described in the Parish Disaster Planning videos, Parishes need both Emergency Operations and Continuity of Operations Plans with goals and objectives for protecting life safety and for maintaining essential Parish functions.

When Parishes identify gifts to offer to their community during disaster response and recovery, they can take steps to ensure that those commitments can be fulfilled.

- Contact Catholic Charities for training, activities, and guidance related to disaster operations, and support in challenging situations.
- Connect with local emergency management to explore or enhance a partnership.
- Ask Catholic Charities or local emergency management officials if a collaborative effort is occurring in your community. If so, introduce your Parish and its preparedness, response and/or recovery activities. Consider sharing the results of your Parish Capabilities Assessment with your local Catholic Charities Agency, local Emergency Management Agency, and/or Community Organizations Active in Disasters.
- If there is no coordinated community organization for assisting vulnerable members of the community after a disaster, think about becoming an advocate to do so.

Sharing Our Gifts Wrap Up

When you begin or resume your efforts to define a role for your Parish after a disaster, remember that the Participant Guide includes a synopsis of the video contents and resources to assist you.

Sharing Our Gifts, and the entire Catholic Disaster Preparedness Program, was produced by Catholic Charities USA to:

- Prepare ourselves and our families for disasters and emergencies
- Prepare our parishes so that sacraments and services will be available
- Prepare as Catholic members of the community to help all our neighbors

For more information, contact your local Catholic Charities office, or visit Catholic Charities USA at catholiccharitiesusa.org or call (703)549-1390.
